About the Internship Programme

The Human Sciences Research Council (HSRC) Internship Programme provides an exceptional opportunity for unemployed graduates to gain valuable work experience, mentorship, and exposure in their respective fields. The programme is designed to:

[the_ad id="191"]

Provide hands-on work experience to graduates through mentorship and structured learning.
Facilitate the development of skills required for seamless entry into the job market.
Enable interns to apply and transfer their knowledge within their host institutions.
Offer exposure to research management, research support, and administration in public higher education and research institutions.

This 24-month internship programme is fully funded with a monthly stipend, managed through the HSRC.
